CUT UP FAMOUS SAPPHIRE

Only Fragments Remain of Magnificent Stone That Was Worth Several Million Francs.

It is a strange story, that of the Brankli sapphire, which M. Lacombe, examining magistrate, is at present investigating. This precious stone, known as "The King of Sapphires," belonged to the Brankli family; it was bought at Frankfurt in 1840, weighed 291 carats, is said to have been worth several million francs, and was taken from the hip pocket of Count Xavier Brankli at Warsaw in July, 1918, during the German occupation.

The count found himself in Paris recently, and knowing that there is an important market for precious stones in the city he thought he would ask the police to make inquiries about his sapphire. The police inspectors found in possession of a dealer in precious stones not the sapphire but portions of it. The dealer told how a few months ago he bought the sapphire for 185,000 francs from a Lithuanian dealer established near Kovno, whom he knew to be an honest man.

He was aware that the stone had figured in the exhibition in Vienna in 1897, and in the Paris exhibition in 1907, and realizing that it would be difficult to get rid of it he had it cut into fragments, some of which were utilized in rings and necklaces. Of the 291 carats only 136 carats remain.

SPOILED HIS "GOOD THING"

Youthful Financier Was Doing Splendidly Until His Mother Butted Into the Game.

"It's sure tough when a feller has business ability and is cleaning up money right and left and then his mother goes and spoils it all," said Tommy mournfully. "Why, I was hoarding more money than any kid on the block."

"Well, how did you make your money?" and why did your mother make you quit?" the boy was asked.

"The feller around here never used to have any place to play marbles until I thought of my back yard," Tommy replied. "I used to charge them three cents to come into my yard and play. It really was worth the money, because in my place they had all the room they wanted and, besides, they would never get chased by the cop. At last I got about 20 to 35 customers a day and my mother said she wouldn't let me run my business any more because the kids made too much noise."

The Perils in a Kiss.

"As for Elodie—what did a kiss or two matter? If one paid all that attention to a kiss one's life would be a complicated drama of a hundred threads. A kiss is nothing—so rare and one of her obituary dicta—'unless you feel it in your toes. Then look out.'"

"A kiss must mean either very much or very little. There are maidens to whom it signifies a life's consecration, and there are men whose blood it fires with burning passion. There are couples of different sex who jointly consider their first kiss a matter of supreme importance, and, the temporary rapture over, at once begin to discuss the possibilities of parental approbation and the ways and means of eluding it. A kiss may be the very pivot of a thing, leading to two or three dozen honorably born grandchildren, or to suicide, or to celibate addition to cats, or to the fate of Abelard, or to the Fall of Troy."

"—Vol. 100, 'The Mountebank' by W. J. Locke."

The Modern Mark.

Mayor Moore of Philadelphia, being congratulated on the success of his administration, laughed and observed: "Good workmen are always modest about their work. A lady once said laughingly to Mark Twain: 'I guess, being such a grand writer as you are, you're awfully fond of books, aren't you?'"

"Well, that depends," drawled the humorist. "If a book has a leather cover it has magnificent value as a war story. A brief, concise work, such as the French write, is very useful to put under the short leg of a wobbly table. Large, old-fashioned books with clasps can't be beat as missiles to hurl at dogs and cats. A large book, like a geography, is nearly as good as a piece of tin to nail over a broken window pane."

Sees Ice Age.

A succession of great eruptions as that of the Mount Katmai volcano eruption in Alaska in June, 1912, would plunge the earth into another ice age by reducing the sun's temperature to a low degree on earth. Dr. Robert E. Griggs said before the American Association for Advancement of Science at a general session in an address one night. Doctor Griggs headed the national geographic expedition to Mount Katmai.

Agricultural Possibilities.

"Hiram," said Mrs. Cornet, "the fruit is going to be a failure."

"Well," replied her husband, "we might as well get the news early right here on our own farm as to wait and learn the bad news from the commission merchants."

Good at Bookkeeping.

Hub-1 don't believe you can keep account of the money you spend.

Wife—Oh, yes, I can. It's the money I can't keep.
